

As some of you already know, Hot Toys, through their relationship with Sideshow Toys, will be tackling the Star Wars license in the coming months. My guess is that Sideshow will stick with the Clone Troopers/Storm Troopers and Hot Toys will tackle the character based figures. Not sure.

I do know, however, that the first Hot Toys/Star Wars figure out the gate will be Luke Skywalker in Bespin Fatigues. Because this is a DX Series set, it comes LOADED with stuff. You not only get Luke in his minty fresh Bespin fatigues before he went into his light saber duel with Darth Vader, but you also get a second Luke figure, all beat up (with removable hand no less) as an added bonus.

To top it all off, they're including a Light-up Weathervane stand which can be mounted onto the wall or ceiling and allows 90 degree movement. ETA: Q2 2012
